Pondering Christ

Pondering Christ

In the very first instant of creation a group of beings appeared who shared divinity with The Creator. They were known as Creator Sons, the order of Michael. Each was to organize his own universe of time and space, the evolving worlds into which bits of spirit could emerge and begin progress back toward the center of the creation. We call that Paradise. The form of these beings is in spirit. Should you be able to perceive one, you would 'see' a field of golden light that extends throughout the universe in which you live. You would be in the presence of a personality of absolute reality, whose existence is the very fabric of reality.

We are a type of creature that has animal roots and spiritual potential. We have the opportunity to survive this existence and go on through worlds of increasingly greater spiritual reality but decreasing material density. The evolutionary process does come to a completion. The spirit is so purified, so realized, that 'graduation' to the central universes beyond time and space is the next quantum leap. That is called salvation, and it is literally true that you have to go through the Creator Son to achieve salvation. You don't have to believe this in order to be given the right to continue your spiritual evolution after this earth. You don't have to believe the earth is round. Reality doesn't care what you or I believe.

One of the processes of creation in which the Creator Sons participate is to experience an incarnation in each of the varieties of creatures who populate their universes. For a brief time, they can't be found anywhere until they emerge from the completion of that experience. The last incarnation of our Creator Son happened on our own little mud ball, Earth...and the political and religious authorities killed him. Sheesh. The cross should be a symbol of embarrassment.

The life of Jesus was a unique event in this entire universe. As you and I have a dual nature, Jesus had a ternary nature. He was animal with the spiritual capacity for growth and salvation, and also a divine eternal nature. As he grew, the divine personality of the Creator Son progressively regained self-awareness once more. This is the mystery at the root of one of the greatest stories of all time. Imagine a human realizing that he harbored divinity. I believe the miracles were a mistake. Here's a man full of sympathy for his fellows, who is confronted by physical pain and suffering. Within him is the capacity to release creative energy to heal. His emerging divine nature knew that spiritual awakening is not fostered by miracles but his human feeling was so strong that it briefly was dominant, creative energy poured out and miracles occurred.

Our Creator Son gave us a great gift as he left. In evolving worlds, a degree of worldwide spiritual maturity must have been attained for all the emerging personalities to be given the option to survive beyond death. The Earth had been so retarded by the Lucifer rebellion that we had not achieved that status. Survival was not guaranteed. Christ's parting gift to this earth was to confer the right of continued survival for everyone from that time forward. Imagine that!
